

Kaiser Associates' Healthcare Practice is now Kx Advisors

WASHINGTON D.C. (October 29, 2019)—In recognition of consistent year-over-year increases in business and to signal its ongoing commitment to, and investment in, its Healthcare Practice, Kaiser Associates is pleased to announce the launch of Kx Advisors. Kx Advisors is a healthcare strategy consultancy dedicated to helping achieve critical business growth goals in partnership with its clients in Pharma, Biotech, Medical Device, and Health IT.

The organization will be co-led by Dan O'Neill and Bob Serrano, Senior Vice Presidents who have been with Kaiser Associates for a combined twenty years. The existing Kaiser Associates Healthcare team will now operate as Kx Advisors where they will continue to deliver data-driven growth strategy with the same focus on client service. The business also plans to add additional headcount and build on recent investments in data assets and reporting capabilities.

Kaiser Associates will continue to grow and invest in its six practice areas outside of healthcare. In addition, Kaiser Associates will support Kx Advisors with core corporate support functions. "The dedication and expertise of our Healthcare Practice team will ensure the ongoing success of Kx Advisors," said Lisa Pryor, Managing Director. "We look forward to our ongoing partnership with Kx and supporting their continued success."

The new consultancy is already operating under the Kx Advisors name at the Washington D.C., London, and Hong Kong offices and maintains an online presence at KxAdvisors.com.
